

The presidential race is passing us by in California but we are still paying attention. If the movie about John Kerry is aired as planned, many of us will be voting with our consumable income by avoiding Sinclair products and services and those who advertise them. Is anyone listening?